

Rosaleene Murphy member of the Irish Womens' Shore Angling Team who recently competed in South Africa placing 5th overall has given us her review of Rodfendr.

My new pocket sized rodrest wow . Saves bundles of unnecessary scratching and marking on my rod when it's leaning against a wall or rocks. Now I don't need to be pulling car around looking for clothes to stick under the rod any more . MY new rodfendr is already slipped in place and can be moved to suit the height of the ledge my rod is resting against and when the big fish arrives and drags my rod across the stone surface my rod is protected from damage . About time this great invention came onto the market. I'm delighted with mine and so is Donna Murphy. Well done to Alan O'Shea best wishes for the future of this wonderful little must have gadget.
